Don't forget...
Last day of Term 3 this
Friday 24th Sept
Early Dismissal at 2.10pm

From the Principal

Reflecting back on Term 3

It has been another rewarding term at Kapunda Primary School, which included

- Enterprise Day, which allowed students to showcase their entrepreneur skills and raise funds for the school
- SAPSASA Athletics, where students participated with enthusiasm and determination in their events
- Very pleasing progress in PAT M/R testing
- A magnificent performance by our Choir students at the Entertainment Centre
- A fun filled Book Week Parade, that showcased the magic of reading
- Excitement and adventure at the Middle Primary Camp, Glenhaven

I thank our teachers, SSOs and leadership team members for their time and effort which allows these events to take place.

NAPLAN results

Parents/Carers will have received their child's individual NAPLAN results for 2021. The package includes an Individual Student Report (ISR – multi-coloured report), Individual Student Summary Report (ISSR - blue report) and Standard of Educational Achievement (SEA) Student Report. I encourage parents to spend time with their child going through the reports, as this allows both parent and child to gain a picture of where the child is sitting at in regards to their achievement.

As a school the NAPLAN results are most pleasing. The Department for Education's 10 year aspirational goal for the systems NAPLAN performance score to be at 0.68. Kapunda Primary School is sitting at 0.58, an increase from 0.47 in 2018. This is fantastic, and credit must go to staff for their work in this upward trajectory.

ICAS assessment

The International Competitions and Assessments for Schools (or ICAS for short), is an independent, skills based assessment program. ICAS recognises and rewards student achievement in areas such as English, Mathematics and Science. The series of tests are paid for by students/families, are designed to match and test skills that are learned in the classroom. The ICAS testing program is a voluntary test.

This term we had 13 students participate in ICAS. For more information regarding the student's success, please refer to page 7.

Congratulations to all of them on their achievements.

2022 Staffing

Over the course of the year staffing changes happen. There are also staffing changes for the following year. Mrs Vanessa Murray, current Reception teacher, has been appointed to an ongoing Junior Primary teaching position at Evanston Gardens Primary School, commencing January 2022. Vanessa has been at Kapunda Primary School for 10 years in total, having contributed enormously to the school. She has taught Reception through to Year 2, co-teaching with a number of teachers. She has also been a Coordinator in Numeracy and Pedagogy for 5 years, where she has had significant impact on classroom practice resulting in significant growth and improvement for our students. Vanessa has also taken on wider school roles, which has included being the staff representative on the Finance Committee the past 5 years.

Whilst Vanessa is a massive loss to our school, she will be a massive gain for Evanston Gardens. Her high level skills as a classroom practitioner and leader in curriculum change will see her make positive impact in her next position.

We thank Vanessa for her contributions over many years at Kapunda Primary School and wish her all the very best next year in her new position.

Year 6 and 7 2022

As you would all be aware, 2022 marks the start of a new era, when both our Year 6 and 7 cohort of students move to High School. This means we will lose a large number of students at the end of this school year.

Planning for 2022 is well underway and it is vital to know if you will be leaving the school (not Year 6 and 7) or know of any new families coming to Kapunda. Based on our projected incoming students, and with the large exit of Year 6 and 7 students, at this stage it looks like we will be having 10 classes in 2022 (down from 12 classes in 2021).

What has been happening in Room 19A?

This term Room 19A has been enjoying reading the book "The Witches by Roald Dahl. This has inspired the students to produce some fabulous writing, using a range of writing techniques. Here are a sample of poems and short pieces from our class.

Anger poem By Star Mind

Anger is as red as a gorgeous sparkling ruby.
Being angry taste like a red-hot chili pepper on a hot day.
Anger smells like a heat wave drifting past your nose.
Being angry looks like a raging red fire in a dark fire place.
Anger sounds like a crack of lightning about to hit.

Upset

Being upset is dark and black,
It tastes like a witchetti grub.
It may smell like dirt and really sweaty teenagers.
Being sad looks like a girl in a ball with her hair covering her face.
It sounds like water dripping.

Abby Weltman

Anger

Anger is bright red, like a juicy tomato,
It tastes like a red, hot chili pepper,
And smelt like a boiling hot bowl of soup, burning your taste buds.
Anger looks like a pan of water bubbling up and flipping the lid off,
It sounds like a loud thunder storm on a rainy day,
And feels like your about to explode.
By Alexis Argent

Happy poem by Jacob.Mudge

Happy is the colour of the sun shining above the sunflowers.
It's the taste of the sandwiches from your picnic basket.
Happy is the smell of the red, shining and glossy popples.
It's the look of children screaming joy.
Happiness is the sound of love birds dancing in the cherry blossom.
It's the feeling of love warming up your body.

Sadness

Sadness is like a black hole getting bigger and bigger till it swallows you hole.
It tastes like a rotten banana sitting in the back of your pantry.
Sadness smells like salty water from the ocean and looks like and old cracked grave stone on a gloomy cold night.
It sounds like a bell the keeps on ringing in your head.
Sadness feels like a giant bolder hitting you in the stomach.
By Matilda Spaan

SADNESS

As blue as the waves out to sea, crashing on the beach.
Tasting like cold, salty tears running down your face.
Sadness smells like salty sea water plecting my nose.
Looking like a wrapped up, blue ball not letting anything in.
Sadness sounds like sulking and emptiness in the corner.
Feeling like a hole in your hart needing to be filled.

By Daniel Thurston

Sadness

Sadness is black like the midnight sky
and tastes like solid steel from a snow plough.

Sadness smells like wet socks left out in the rain

And looks like a never-ending void in space.

Sadness sounds like a sulking dog

And feels like you have been stabbed in the heart with a razor-sharp machete

By Isaac Humble

Short writing samples

Then he lay as still as a statue, his face crinkled and his face was numb. The whole of the little boy had changed. What was left was the most destroyed and disturbing thing I have ever seen. My hand started to itch and was going glowing red like a roaring fire and getting hot. It was so fluffy and hairy, so vicious and vulgar, it looked like it has come out a horror tv show. Cristall Jonas

And what was underneath was the most treacherous thing I've ever put my eyes on, my heart started to pump as if was running a marathon. It was squishy and squashy, so brutal and beastly, it looked as if it had come from an apocalypse scene from a movie. Emily Towers

My head was spinning around, I couldn't decide whether to go or stay? I was petrified. I was panic stricken. I was so distressed that I had no idea of what had happened to my puppy. The only thing I knew was that a massive wolf now sat where my puppy was.

By Hamish Vogt

What remained was the most terrifying and revolting thing to ever exist. My heart started to pound like a jack hammer on concrete. It was so dry and gut wrenching, so ghostly and gruesome, it looked as though it had just been torn apart by a pack of vicious wolves.

Lana Jarvis

I didn't know if I should hide or run away. I was scared, confused and alarmed!

I didn't know every thing but he was growing wings and breathing out fire.

BY BAILEY ROGERS

What was left of the little boy was the most spooky and scariest thing I had ever seen. My body had goosebumps all over, it was like a cat's tongue. It was so spikey, so bumpy, so hideous and horrid, it looked like the little boy had been in the bath for days.

Charlize Waldhuter

I had no idea what just happened to my class mate. I was stuck. I was panic-stricken. I was so distressed without knowing what had happened. All I knew was that a deadly poisoned and towering lizard was now causing chaos and terrorising the classroom.

Written by LOCKIE COOK

What was left was the most terrifying and unbelievable thing I had ever seen. My body started to shiver like I was in -20 degrees weather with shorts and no top on. It was so scary and massive, so imitating and empowering, it looked like it came from 100 billion years ago.

Dylan Furness

I couldn't even bring my self to process what just happened. I was dead inside. I was trapped. I was so baffled, not knowing who was next up. All I did know was that Christina was now a hippo.

-Ruby Mihajlowitsch

At a snail's pace ,my puppy, sitting in his bed smiled to show some huge teeth. I saw him shake his body from side to side and then ... then he stood up and all his fur and skin was falling off and laid there in a pile. My puppy had changed. It was a fur coat.

Traye Johnson

I didn't know what to do, it was like the inside of me exploded? I was light headed like a balloon, I was petrified, I was distressed, I was traumatized, not knowing what had happened to the polite, green grasshopper. All I knew was that the black, spikey cockroach was now standing right in front of my left shoe.

By Hunter Turrell

MYSTERY DOG

Bit by Bit, my dog, was sitting on his bed when his eyes went yellow. I saw his fangs grow longer and then ... then he started to grow more and more taller when he was eating. His fur was getting darker and he was starting to change. It was no longer my dog. Chantel Reardon

What was happening in front of me was the most heart-stopping thing I'd even seen. My stomach felt as if it just shriveled up like a piece of paper. It was so slimy and slippery, so frantically ugly, it looked as though it had been brought to Earth from an alien.

I was speechless, what was I going to do?

I was disgusted.

I was shocked.

I was intimidated by the sheer horror of this gross looking beast. I didn't know what I was exactly looking at, but I was certain it was some kind of lizard! By Mikayla Johnson

I was stunned should I hide or run? I was petrified. I was baffled. I was so confused, with not knowing what happened to that boy. All I knew was a huge, scaly, green lizard was standing in front of me. By Tom. Reynolds

What was left was the most brutal and beastly thing I had ever seen. My skin started to chill like an ice cream in the freezer. IT was so foul and filthy, so hideous and horrid, it had looked as though it had come straight a horror picture. Tayla Weltman
What was underneath that coat was the most ghastly and grotesque thing I had ever witnessed. Goosebumps ran up my spine like a swarm of tiny bugs. It was so terrifying and strange, so dreadful and dirty. It looked as if it had been sewn out of patches of skin.

I couldn't comprehend what had just occurred. What should I do? I felt tense, and I was shaking. I was frantic. I was alarmed. I was rigid with fear, my brain still trying to process what had happened.

All I knew was that a rotting, bleeding and terrifying zombie was now standing, white-eyed at me.

By Min Kalleske

I didn't know what to do, sprint and scream or to stay and fight? I was a statue. I was stuck in the mud and devastated not realizing that my lizard was this thing. All I saw was my lizards skin off the floor and a bipedal alien staring into my soul.

Christian Schulze

I didn't know what to do if I would run in fear or if I should stay in fear. I was traumatized. I was stressed. I was frantic not knowing what had happened to the puffer fish. All I knew was that Bagel had turned into a scaly, dark green crocodile. By Claire Goldsmith

Witch

Light footprints started to approach my door. I hid in my closet. My bedroom door opened. I looked through the key hole. Tiny gatherings of stringy hair trailed its path. Blue tinged teeth talking making a feminine voice echo in my ear. My legs were trembling. My heart was pounding. Then it grabbed the closet door with black gloves. A shiver went down my spine and then I froze.

By Charlotte Leslie

Witch

The sky turned black and the room turned ice cold. All happiness disappeared. Goosebumps covered my body. A damp, musty smell drifted past my nose. A shiver ran down my spine. Suddenly I saw them... two beady red eyes staring, from in the darkness. Then two black gloves reached out from in the darkness.

Jessica Jones
